THE WEEKLY SUN

1776. NEW YORK. 1876.

Eighteen hundred and seventy-six is the Centennial year. It is also the year in which an Opposition House of Representatives, the first since the war, will be in power at Washington; and the year of the twenty-thire election of a President of the United States. All af these sevents are sure to be of great interest and importance, especially the two latter; and all of them and everything connected with them will be fully and freshly reported and expounded in THE SUN.

The Opposition House of Representatives, taking up the line of inquiry opened years ago by THE SUN, will sternly and diligently in-by THE SUN, will sternly and diligently in-restigate the corruptions and misdeeds of Grant's administration; and wilk it is to be hoped, lay the foundation for a new and bet-zer period in our national history. Of all this THE SUN will contain complete and accurate accounts, furnishing its readers with early and trustworthy information upon these ab-vorbing tonics.

accounts, furnishing its readers with early and trustworthy information upon these absorbing topics.

The twenty-third Presidential election, with the preparations for it, will be memorable as deciding upon Grant's aspirations for a third legre of power and plunder, and still more as deciding who shall be the candidate of the party of Reform, and as electing that candidate. Concerning all these subjects, those who read THE SUN will have the constant means of being thoroughly well informed.

The WEEKLY SUN, which has attained a sirculation of over eighty thousand copies, already has its readers in every State and Territory, and we trust that the year le76 will see their numbers doubled. It will continue to be a thorough newspaper. All the general news of the day will be found in it, condensed when mimportant, at full length when of moment; and always, we trust, treated in a clear, interesting and instructive manner.

It is our aim to make the WEEKLY SUN the best family newspaper in the world, and we shall continue to give in its columns a large amount of miscellaneous reading, such as stories, tales, poems, solerafic intelligence and information, for which we are not able to make room in our daily edition. The agricultural department especially is one of its prominent features. The fashious are also regularly reported in its columns; and so are the markets of every kind.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The Herald, com menting on the President's Message, says: Its views in the main are sound and indefensible. The President is sound on the Cuban question, on finances, on the questions affecting cable monopoly and on the Mexican question, but on the combined religious and school question he is wild, Quixotic and utterly absurd. This attempt to introduce a religious controling element in our National polities is a most mischieyous and monstrous violation of fitness and propriety ever perpetrated by a President of the United States. On the school question he anticipated Speaker Blaine's proposed amendment to the Constitution, and makes some very commendable propositions, but others are made to make political capital.

The Times approves the message, and considers it sound on the school question, although the propositions made in that connection are not within the province of Congressional legislation.

The World, Democratic, believes the school question is brought up simply to secure a third term.

The-Tribune considers that he has not made any withdrawal from the third term candidacy.

ABOUT THE DEUTSCHLAND DISASTER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—A London special says that the disaster to the steamer Deutschland occurred on the morning of Monday last in a heavy gale of snow and storm. Twenty-five bags of mail matter have been recovered from the wreck. She fired rockets at intervals all day Monday, but owing to the gale she could not be assisted. There were fity dead bodies in the cabin besides those who were in the boats. About fity-four are known to have been saved. Quartermaster Beck, who was rescued, is dying. The scene at the wreck when the boat arrived was frightful, with men, women and children clinging to the rigging. Many had been washed away, and some were in their last struggles. In the cabin were seen the corpses of ladies and children, dressed as if they had been surprised after retiring for the night. One hundred and forty persons were taken off by the tug. Five nuns were among the drowned. ABOUT THE DEUTSCHLAND DISASTER.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 .- In regard to the tatement telegraphed from New York representing that the Northwestern road is on the verge of insolvency, President Keep, of this city, says: I think the matter is easily disposed of. It is understood to be an effort on the part of some who are short in stock, to save themselves from loss. The company has just paid its December bonded interest, about $700,000, without berrowing a dollar, and after making this payment has a large balance in cash in the treasury. In fact, it has not been so easy financially for years; nor has the conduction of the road or its equipments ever before been so good as now. If the author of these rumors is heavily short of stock, he has good reason for the anxiety manifested in the dispatch. Ho said further, that since November 1st, $1,006,369 had been remitted to New York—receipts from ordinary business of the road. The earnings for the month of November show a gain over the corresponding month of last year of $153,760.

A Narrow Essape.

[From the Brooklyn Argus.]

Mr. Wm. Line, the Mt. Washington signal operator, who was thought to have been exposed to the cold and storm of last Tuesday night on this mountain, has turned up all right, although he had a narrow escape from a tearful death. It appears that he was able to keep the path, but when about three-quarters of a mile from the top became thoroughly chilled by the cold and driving storm.

Fortunately for him there is a small house at this point on the mountain side, and getting down on all fours, after a long and desperate effort, he succeeded in reaching it. Having but a single match in his pocket, and knowing that life depended on starting a fire, one can imagine his feelings as he, having placed kindling wood in the stove, attempted to ignite it. The attempt proved successful and he was saved. He stayed in this house from four o'clock Thursday afternoon until the next morning at ten before he dared to start again for the top of the mountain. The people in that vicinity turned out in large numbers to hunt for his supposed frozen body.

Fears of a European War.

Fears of a European War.

[From the resident correspondent World.] There is a strange foreboding of coming trouble on the continent. Rumors of the most portentous character fly about. Austria, Russia and Germany have sent, it is said, a collective note to Turkey, informing the Sultan that he must yield up his Christian provinces. A copy of the note has been sent to Her Majesty's Government; Cabinet councils are beld every day; the Prince of Wales has been advised that war is so imminent that he had better return home at once; and so on; I am loth to believe these stories; when you get so many warnings of danger, the danger itself often fails to arrive. Still there is no telling what may happen, and if the flame is once lighted it will spread like a prairie fire.
